WELCOME

FROM THE ARNOVA PRESIDENT

Dear Colleagues:

It is with great pleasure that I welcome you to ARNOVA's 45th annual conference and to Washington, DC, which for 35 years I have called home. While many think of Washington as a transient city, with political appointees moving in and out every few years, there are hundreds of thousands who are born and spend their whole lives in the District of Columbia or who come and stay for quite a while to enjoy the beautiful, engaging city that is our nation's capital. Now, if we only had a vote in Congress ... but I guess that's an issue for a different day.

For our Washington conference, I am especially pleased that we have assembled a consortium of local universities, a think tank, and a national NGO – American University, Georgetown University, James Madison University, George Mason University, George Washington University, University of Baltimore, University of Maryland, the Urban Institute, Virginia Tech University, and Zakat Foundation – to serve as institutional co-hosts of this conference. Collaboration is alive and well in Washington, DC !

We also appreciate the critical support of our philanthropic partners – The Lilly Endowment, Charles Stewart Mott Foundation, Ford Foundation, and Kresge Foundation – for their investment in our work and the backing of our national sponsors that support ARNOVA's conference regardless of where it is held.

In addition to our host institutions and other conference sponsors, we owe a great debt to Conference Co-Chairs Jennifer Mosley and David Suarez and their committee colleagues for putting together a superb program. The Local Arrangements Committee, led by Elizabeth Boris and Bob Grimm, also deserve great thanks. Finally, the ARNOVA staff, including Executive Director Shariq Siddiqui and conference coordinator Mary Kate Myers, have worked long hours to ensure that we all have an excellent conference experience, and we are very grateful for their efforts as well.

I hope you enjoy the amazing smorgasbord of sessions: plenaries, mini-plenaries, colloquia, panels, posters, section meetings, and receptions. The ARNOVA board is committed to the ARNOVA conference being the “must attend” meeting for nonprofit scholars. And, we welcome your recommendations about how to make a very good conference even better. Please feel free to email me at aabramso@gmu.edu or Shariq Siddiqui at ssiddiqui@arnova.org with your suggestions.

In closing, I want to acknowledge that I will complete my two-year term as ARNOVA president at Friday's membership meeting. It has been a real honor to serve as ARNOVA's president and to work with a terrific Board, staff, and membership. I know that the association will be in extremely capable hands as I pass the presidency on to Mary Tschirhart.

Have a great conference, and I do hope you get some time to step outside and explore our wonderful city.

Best,

Alan Abramson, George Mason University

WELCOME

FROM THE ARNOVA CO-CHAIRS

Welcome to ARNOVA's 2016 Annual Conference! As we meet old friends and new colleagues in Washington D.C. just a few weeks after the presidential election, change is in the air. In our view, the public discussion of policy differences associated with elections, as well as their ambiguity, make Washington, D.C. an ideal location for our conference, perhaps even adding a sense of urgency to the theme: Nonprofits, Philanthropy & Government: Policy & Partnerships in an Era of Change.

With a new presidential administration, questions abound about what the next 4 years will bring. Continuity with the policies of the outgoing administration is no guarantee regardless of the party affiliation of the winner. Will the new president invest in the Office of Social Innovation and Civic Innovation or the Office of Faith-Based and Neighborhood Partnerships? Will federal agencies become more reliant on advisors and service providers from the nonprofit sector or not? The difficult election season also raises questions about the ability of the new administration to effectively govern. Given the strong relationships many nonprofits have with government, and the degree to which the sector is responsible for implementing policy and responding to new social needs, the answers to these questions present opportunities and challenges for everyone involved with the nonprofit sector.

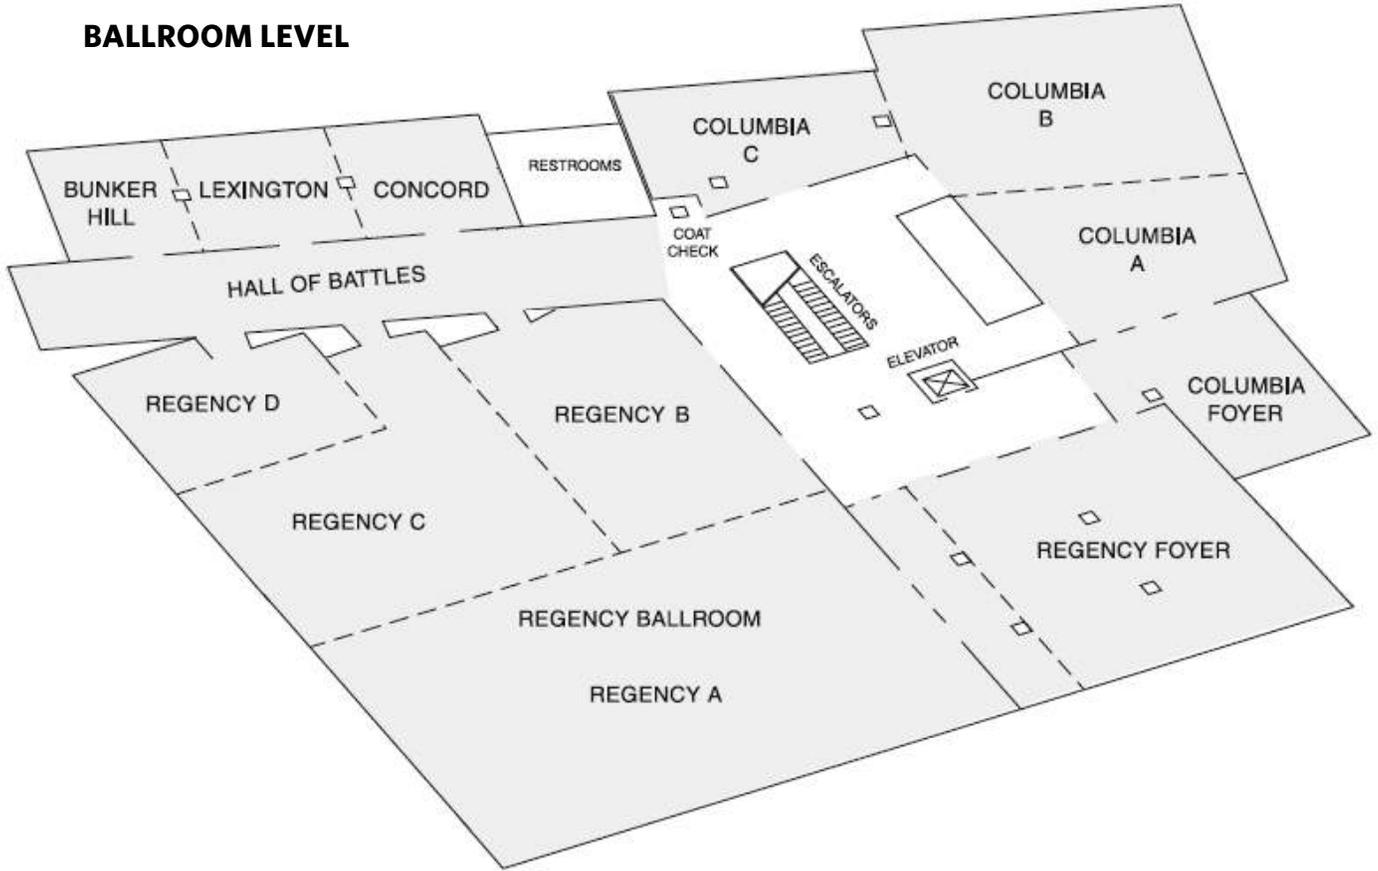

Though the conference committee considered the location of the meeting and its timing with the presidential election when deliberating about the theme, the "era of change" faced by the nonprofit and philanthropic sector is also much broader than that. This November we will also engage in discussions about the impact of the unparalleled growth of the sector worldwide. In the United States, available data indicate that nonprofit revenues, expenditures, and assets continue to expand; the size, reach, and scope of the nonprofit and philanthropic sectors have never been greater. Within philanthropy, foundations have experienced significant growth as well, leading some to declare that the foundation field is in the midst of a second golden era, comparable only to the period when these institutions first achieved legal status. Despite a significant slowdown due to the Great Recession, growth also characterizes the long-term trend in individual giving. Much more than a U.S. phenomenon, efforts to document cross-national trends in nonprofit, philanthropic, and broader civil society initiatives reveal a striking global pattern of increased activity.

The conference this year explores the causes and consequences of these developments, especially in relation to policy and partnerships with government. The program continues to reflect the diversity of member research interests, with 340 papers, 38 panels, and 60 colloquia grouped into 12 substantive areas. Building on successful innovations from the last few years, this year features four mini-plenaries, in addition to the opening and closing plenary. We have expanded the number of professional development sessions as well, part of the ongoing effort to make ARNOVA a welcoming, inclusive community for scholars and practitioners of all backgrounds. These innovations and the conference itself would not have been possible without the selfless service of many ARNOVA members and we know that that new members and regular attendees will notice their effort. Thank you for attending the ARNOVA conference and for strengthening the association through your research and service.

SPECIAL SESSIONS AND MINI PLENARIES

ARNOVA has put together a number of special sessions that focus on professional development at all levels. Additionally there will be 4 mini-plenary sessions that explore a number of current issues and recognize a number of ARNOVANs who have impacted the field and our organization.

MINI PLENARIES

All will take place Friday, November 18 from 2:00 pm – 3:30 pm

Frontiers of Nonprofit Data Collection

Regency D

This mini-plenary highlights some innovative and interesting ways to collect nonprofit data. Members will present their work on collecting geo-spatial program data, running experiments using Mechanical Turk, building a custom online platform to collect a large-N survey panel, and scraping text from social media sites. The plenary is designed to be instructive for individuals that are looking for new ways to gather and analyze data.

Chair: Mark A. Hager, Arizona State University

Presenter: Mirae Kim, University of Missouri-Columbia

Presenter: Jeremy Philip Thornton, Samford University

Presenter: Gregory D. Saxton, University at Buffalo, SUNY

Presenter: Brent Neiver, University of Missouri-Kansas City

Presenter: Jesse Lecy, Maxwell School of Citizenship and Public Affairs

The Politics of “Big Philanthropy” Then and Now: A Historical Perspective on Critical Philanthropy Research

Columbia A

This session will examine private foundations as elite institutions in the public sphere. Through a historical lens, they will consider the implications of foundations’ influence in a democratic society – both positive and negative – and consider what lessons this history holds for current and future philanthropists.

Presenter: Megan E. Tompkins-Stange, University of Michigan

Presenter: Sarah Reckhow, Michigan State

Presenter: Erica Kohl-Arenas, The New School

Presenter: Maribel Morey, Clemson University

Chair: Patricia Bromley, Stanford Graduate School of Education

Recognition of Award Winning Scholarly Research

Columbia C

Scholars selected for the 2016 awards including Rudney Dissertation Award, Hogkinson Book Award, and RGK-ARNOVA Award and University of Maryland-Arnova Global Philanthropy and Nonprofit Leadership Award will present their award winning research during this mini-plenary session.

Social Enterprises: Hybrid Organizations between the Market and Civil Society

Columbia B

Social enterprises are heralded as innovative vehicles that can best solve social problems as a result of their scalability and sustainability. However, they face the dual challenge of maintaining their commitment to a social mission while also succeeding as companies. This mini-plenary seeks to outline the consequences of such hybridity.

Chair: Emily Barman, Boston University

Presenter: Kate Cooney, Yale University School of Management

Presenter: Paul-Brian McInerney, University of Illinois at Chicago

Presenter: Heerad Sabeti, Fourth Sector Networks

Updating the Research Agenda on Government-Nonprofit Relationships

Congressional A

This colloquium brings together four leaders in research on government-nonprofit relationships to discuss avenues for advancing the government-nonprofit research agenda. Panelists will offer their perspectives on the current state of research on government-nonprofit relationships and propose directions for future research.

Chair: Christopher S. Horne, University of Tennessee at Chattanooga

Presenter: Shena R. Ashley, Urban Institute

Presenter: Jeffrey Brudney, University of North Carolina Wilmington

Presenter: Kirsten Gronbjerg, Indiana University

Presenter: Dennis Young, Andrew Young School of Policy Studies

SPECIAL SESSIONS

Succeeding in Publishing in Peer-Reviewed Journals

During this panel, editors of leading nonprofit journals will discuss how to successfully navigate publishing in peer-reviewed academic journals.

Columbia B Thursday 8:00am

The Nonprofit Panel Dataset: Sharing Progress and Seeking Constituent Feedback

The Nonprofit Panel Dataset began as an idea in 2014 regarding the need to leverage our collective expertise to learn more about the nonprofit sector. It has grown to a collaborative of 70+ scholars and experts in the nonprofit field who are working to focus its purpose, define its methods, assure fair and transparent governance, engage stakeholders, and create a sustainable model that will benefit the field. In this session, working group members will share successes and challenges and seek feedback from the broader ARNOVA community.

Columbia C Thursday 9:45am

Nonprofit and Philanthropic Consulting: An Introduction to the Field and Dialogue with Long-Time Consultants

From service design to business development, attendees will have the opportunity to have dialogue with panelists in small groups around topics of interest and be provided resources to further their exploration of the field.

Glacier Thursday 9:45 am

Promotion to Full Professor: Why, When, and With What Effects?

This session will feature four full professors at different stages of their careers and focus on questions of: 1. why go through the promotion process to full professor after having attained a tenured, associate professor position; 2. when in one's career is it best to go up for promotion to full professor; and 3. what effects or impact does attaining this status have on faculty research, teaching, and service goals?

Concord Thursday 2:00pm

Surviving the Tenure Track

The tenure track can be stressful and confusing. It is a major professional event in the career of academics, yet it can bleed into our personal lives. The goal of this session is to explore the experiences of scholars who have recently successfully navigated the tenure track. The process can be idiosyncratic for each institution, so the session covers a wide breadth of universities. Participants will discuss the strategies that they used to be successful as well as choices that they may have made differently.

Thornton Lounge Thursday 3:45pm

Vessels of Philanthropic Knowledge: What's Next?

The institutional context of knowledge production is fundamental to shaping our understanding of philanthropy. How is the organization of knowledge affecting discovery? What kinds of institutional vessels are exploring this terrain? What are lessons learned by colleagues who lead "academic" institutions devoted to philanthropic knowledge? What innovations might be next?

Concord Friday 10:00am

Writing a Successful Book Proposal

During this panel, publishers will discuss the process their organization has for accepting/inviting book proposals. Helpful hints and tips will be given as well and time for Q&A.

Columbia C Friday 3:45pm

The Senior Career Experience

In this workshop, six senior colleagues will share their observations on the senior phase of their careers. Based on their experiences and what they have seen in the lives of colleagues, they will reflect on questions like:

- Knowing what we know now (or learned in retirement) what would we have done differently?
- What are we doing to stay engaged with our work?
- What's easier now, what's harder?
- What and who helps us keep going in the field?
- What new avenues of action, advocacy, service, and life, are opening?

Concord Friday 3:45pm

Nonprofit and Philanthropy: Scholars Writing for a Broader Audience

This session will discuss how researchers can contribute to and inform practitioner and policy dialogues through writing for non-academic publications. It will focus on helping scholars understand how they can translate their existing research and writing towards a broader audience.

Thornton B Saturday 8:15am

Foundations, Innovation and Inequality

This session brings together foundations, non-profit actors and researchers to share perspectives on how and what investments in skills development create quality employment opportunities for youth.

Voices of Nonprofit Board Chairs: A National Research Study on How They Prepare For and Perceive Their Role in Relation to the Board, Community, and CEO

This session is based upon an ANM study that examines the following research questions are: (1) How do board chairs perceive their roles relative to the board, the organization, the community and CEO? 2) How do they prepare or not for the role of chair, and; 3) what was helpful in preparing the person to step into the chair role?

Lexington Thursday 8:00 am

Aligning Social Change Principles with Organizational Practices: How Can Nonprofits Integrate Community Engagement?

More and more, organizations are asked to engage participants to inform their programs. Given the wide variety of engagement models – from client satisfaction surveys, to feedback loops, to leadership development, and more – many organizations wonder how best to engage clients, constituents and community members into their work. This colloquium will introduce participants to The Nonprofits Integrating Community Engagement (NICE) Guide, a publication by the Alliance for Nonprofit Management and the Building Movement Project. Filled with easy-to-use tools, curated from a diversity of organizations, NICE resources can help capacity builders and nonprofit leaders working to shift organizations towards more meaningful engagement.

Center for Public & Nonprofit Leadership McCourt School of Public Policy, Georgetown University

Waldemar A. Nielsen Chair in Philanthropy

The Nielsen Chair Endowment, funded by the Ewing Marion Kauffman Foundation supports an annual visiting practitioner or scholar who contributes to Georgetown as a professor, researcher, and thought-leader on critical issues facing the field of philanthropy. The position is rotating and is currently held by Dr. Elizabeth T. Boris, the founding director of the Urban Institute's Center on Nonprofits and Philanthropy. As Nielsen Chair, Dr. Boris moderated an event on money in politics, co-edited the third edition of Nonprofits and Government: Collaboration and Conflict, and taught a course on philanthropy, civil society and government.

Nonprofit Leadership Education

The Center for Public & Nonprofit Leadership is an education, research and training center dedicated to the development of public, nonprofit and philanthropic leadership. Our programs for graduate students, practitioners, and policymakers enhance their capacity to work across organizations, communities and sectors to address public needs, tackle public problems and, above all, promote the public good. Currently, the Center is partnering with the Corporation for Enterprise Development to launch a new Racial Wealth Divide Initiative to strengthen the asset building capacity and connectivity of local organizations of color in Miami, New Orleans, Baltimore and Chicago.

Building a Better International NGO: Greater than the Sum of the Parts?

JAMES CROWLEY AND MORGANA RYAN

“This is the most useful work of its kind I have come across in the last decade. Its analysis of the organizational changes required by INGOs to achieve greater impact is insightful, practical, and highly compelling.”

—Robert Glasser, CARE International
 pb $25

Navigating Change for International NGOs:

A Practical Handbook

“A highly practical book full of real world insight.... I recommend it to anyone who is really interested in how to achieve transformational change in the civil society sector.”

—Matthew Foster, Open University • pb $26.50

The Nonprofit World: Civil Society and the Rise of the Nonprofit Sector

JOHN CASEY

“Provides a comprehensive picture of the nonprofit world.... [The book’s] rich examples and deep analysis are the fruit of the long experience of its author.... Relevant to anyone doing research on the nonprofit sector, civil society, philanthropy, NGOs, and other related themes.”

—AMELIA FAUZIA, Voluntas

pb $28.50

“Written in an engaging and unpretentious tone that makes it appropriate for academic and practitioner audiences alike. Casey’s thorough examination of the direct and indirect effects of nonprofits on civil society in a variety of cultural and political contexts provides an insightful analysis that is both encompassing and meticulous.”—ELIZABETH ROWAN, Nonprofit and Voluntary Sector Quarterly

Our Research team studies emerging trends, challenges conventional wisdom, and empowers nonprofits, funders, and donors with unique insights into philanthropic organizations and their practices.

Unparalleled Education

We are the first school of its kind in the world that educates and trains the next generation of philanthropy and nonprofit professionals, scholars, and philanthropists to fulfill their dreams of changing the world. We prepare future leaders by offering bachelor's, master's, executive master's, and doctoral degrees in philanthropic studies, as well as certificate programs.

Renowned Training Opportunities

We offer philanthropy training and certification programs that can contribute dynamically to the future of your nonprofit organization and its mission. With training options from The Fund Raising School, Lake Institute on Faith & Giving, and Women's Philanthropy Institute, find the course that's right for you.

INSPIRING A CULTURE OF PHILANTHROPY AND SOCIAL INNOVATION

From orientation to graduation, the University of Maryland will engage the entire student body in initiatives designed to ensure that every student who graduates will do so informed and motivated to “do good” in their communities and around the world. This campus-wide initiative builds on the success and impact of the School of Public Policy and its Center for Philanthropy and Nonprofit Leadership, which is now the new Do Good Institute.

The initiative will create an accelerator to support promising Do Good ventures with leadership coaching, creative community space, networking opportunities, financial support and training. It will also provide support for three new faculty endowments to increase the depth and capacity for research, teaching and service to the field.

RECOGNITION

We congratulate Angela Bies, endowed associate professor of global philanthropy and nonprofit leadership, who joins Chao Guo and Susan Phillips as editors-in-chief of Nonprofit and Voluntary Sector Quarterly.

A GROWING FACULTY

The School is home to vibrant faculty in the area of philanthropy and nonprofit leadership, including: Angela Bies: philanthropy and NGO leadership in comparative perspective, accountability and self-regulation, nonprofit sector infrastructure and capacity; Toby Egan: management and organization development, coaching, human capital and social innovation; Robert T. Grimm, Jr.: social innovation and entrepreneurship, social capital, civic engagement, and history of philanthropy; Jennifer Littlefield: social change and public service leadership, nonprofit management education, cross-sector collaboration and grant making; Robert Sheehan: nonprofit management, strategic planning, and executive education; Travis St. Clair: public and nonprofit finance; Susannah Washburn: social innovation and entrepreneurship, giving, community partnerships, and youth and leadership development.

Committed to Innovative Community Engagement

The Indiana University School of Public and Environmental Affairs at IUPUI is pleased to present Community Corps; a new program that builds on SPEA's long-standing commitment to community engagement and development through faculty and student partnerships, the IU Public Policy Institute's collaborations with nonprofit and government partners, SPEA's Executive Education leadership training programs, and a strong network of SPEA alumni who reside in the Indianapolis region.

Community Corps is uniquely positioned to enhance the City of Indianapolis' Focus Areas Initiative and the LISC Great Places program. These initiatives are data-driven efforts to identify the systemic and generational challenges and deficits that contribute to crime, public safety concerns, and low quality of life within six Indianapolis neighborhoods. The initiative will be led by SPEA faculty, whose vision will help guide the program with SPEA students and an extensive number of SPEA's existing nonprofit, faith-based, and public partners that serve these six neighborhoods.

"I was impressed, first, with the magnitude of the project and then because philanthropy was presented with a diverse, inclusive and broad focus."

– Michele Kimmel-Fors, Executive Director of Compass, Encompass

"I can envision it being an important teaching/learning tool for many different audiences. We need such a documentary to provoke more critical and engaged discussions about philanthropy in America and around the globe."

- Dr. Dwight Burlingame, Professor of Philanthropic Studies, Glenn Family Chair in Philanthropy

This feature length documentary portrays and discusses the concept of giving within the American context through a critical lens and a variety of perspectives. Contributors include: actor Mike Farrell, NFL quarterback Alex Smith, Evelyn Lauder from the Estee' Lauder Companies, Civil Rights Leader Dr. William G. Anderson, Nell Newman, co-founder of Newman's Own Organics, US Senator Charles Grassley, as well as leading scholars and average citizens.
